PROJECT DESCRIPTION

The 400,000 sq. ft. Whiting Mill operated two power machines, producing approximately 250,000 tons annually of coated paper, used by the publishing and printing industry. Scope of work performed included demolition of the entire mill, which was completed with a combination of torch cutting and mechanical methods, asset recovery, scrap reclamation, and hazardous material removal. Prior to demolition waste in each building was removed and all wood and/or organic demolition debris was transported and disposed of off-site.
